Polar Audio are proud to present the latest innovation from Dutch Communications manufacturer ASL, in the form of the DS4000 Digital Intercom.

This system continues the ASL format of simple, easy to use products that without any special technical knowledge can be put together to form a intercom network up to a maximum of 240 user stations.

The 3 main components are:-

DS4000M Master Matrix –this serves up to 40 users and can be linked to a maximum of 6 stations to create the 240 users overall. The handy USB port on the front, allows multiple user settings to be saved and loaded from a “stick”, whilst the matrix software itself is configured via the front set PC port. This is in addition to a built in switch mode power supply.

DS1640 Speaker Station – this unit is available as a 16 channel unit, expandable via a 20 channel extension unit to form a useful 36 channel master. Each channel is assigned to a group as defined in the matrix unit, In addition the user can initiate PTP( person to person) communication and send text messages. AS with the standard ASL speaker stations it has a built in loudspeaker and gooseneck microphone. A 4 pin socket allows connection of a headset which in turn disables the speaker and microphone. Up to 8 function settings can be stored such as Speaker on-off / Stage announce/Call to talk.

DS290 dual channel beltpack – Housed in a strong ABS case, the DS290 is powered from the matrix unit via the connecting intercom line. In addition to the standard group communication, users can interact directly with one another( PTP), similar to a private telephone call. The beltpack can also receive text messages in situations where it may not be allowed to talk. With the innovative touch sensitive volume controls, the user can easily adjust individual channels. A 4 pin XLR socket completes the fittings allowing connection of the ASL or Beyerdynamic headsets.
